

February Family History Ideas

You are the product of hundreds of very special – and often imperfect – love stories. Those love stories are very unique to your family tree. How many of them do you know? Are they documented on Family Search? They need to be!

Love Stories

Help preserve these love stories by interviewing your loved ones. Here are some questions to ask:

- How and where did they first meet?
- How long did they date?
- Any specifically memorable dates?
- How did they get engaged?
- Where did they get married?

And here are some possible people to interview!

- Your Grandparents
- Your Parents
- Your own love story if you have one!

Make sure you record and save their answers, and maybe even write up their love stories and upload them to Family Search.

You will likely find that some love stories didn't have a happy ending, and that's okay! Often there is just as much to learn about your family history from the sad times as from the good times. Document those stories too, if you decide.

Find Your “Love” Photos

Take the time to find any pictures of your special “love stories,” like wedding photos, first date photos, or maybe even photos from when you were born. Upload these photos to Family Search so your family members can see the love!
